Led Last Charge At Appomattox

Southern General Has Encounter With "Pennsylvania Dutchman"

UDC Program for December: Life of General John B. Gordon.

General John Brown Gordon was a great man with many brave soldier, a noted statesman, a distinguished orator, and an excelle.) author whose works were widely read. General Gordon was born in Upson County, Georgia, February 6, 1832. He was the son of the Rev. Zachary Gordon. The family was of Scotch origin, and numbered soldiers of the Revolu- tion among its members. General

CHARLES N. GREGORY

Pearl Habor Day Survivors Conduct Operation "SOS"

Charles N. Gregory, brother of Mrs. T. M. Trent, Appomattox, is part of an organization, Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, which is conducting an "Operation S.O.S." (Search Out Survivors) with the purpose of contacting some 40 to 60 thousand persons who were in military uniform at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941.

Gregory, state chairman of the Connecticut Chapter of Pearl Harbor Survivors, took part in the reunion of Survivors held Dec. 5 in Connecticut, marking the 24th anniversary of the "Day of Infamy".

The Association has received official endorsement of the President of the United States and the Chiefs of Staff of the Armed Forces.

Association President, Mark Perris, stated recently, "The purpose of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association is to serve as a living reminder of the necessity for eternal vigilance. We who survived the Pearl Harbor attack must assume the responsibility to see that such a disaster is never repeated."

Gordon was a graduate of the University of Georgia, class of 1852 and later practiced law in Atlanta. When the war broke out he joined the Confederate Army and was made captain of the volunteers in 1861. He passed through the grades of the army until he reached the rank of lieutenant general.

Made Last Charge At Appomattox

General Gordon had the ability to inspire his troops and then to lead them into the valley of death. He was wounded eight times on battlefields. His recovery from these wounds was largely due to the devoted nursing of his wife, the former Fanny Haralson, daughter of Hon. Hugh Anderson Haralson, Georgia Congressman. General Gordon commanded an infantry division at Gettysburg and led the attack on July 1, 1863. He distinguished himself in the battles of Fredericksburg, Spottsylvania Court House, Seven Pines, Sharpsburg, the Wilderness, Cedar Creek and held the last lines at Petersburg. At Appomattox he was in command of one wing of Lee's Army and was given orders to break through Grant's line. He made the last charge and was capturing Federal breatworks when the news of the surrender came.

The Confederate conscript law drafted able-bodied men into service, but some of General Gordon's officers and men thought this should apply to able-bodied horses at the north. Most of these horses had fled the country or were in hiding.

The owners of the few that were available would not submit to southern authority. One of these owners, "a Pennsylvania Dutchman" came to General Gordon and said, "You be's got my mare."

General Gordon replied, "It is not at all improbable, my friend, that I have your mare, but the same we are now playing is what was called in my bobyhood 'tit for tat'."

The Dutchman answered, "I've been married sir, three times, sir; I vood not greef dot mare for all dose voomans."

General Gordon yeilded to his request and had the mare delivered to him.

After the war General Gordon settled in Atlanta, Georgia, and was a member of the Democratic National Conventions of 1863 and 1872. He was elected to the United States Senate in 1873 and was re-elected in 1879 and 1890. He was elected governor of Georgia, 1890-1890, and Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, 1900. As Commander of the United Confederate Veterans he was tremendously popular. His leadership, personality, and conservative administration brought success to the organization. General Gordon was the author of The Old South, 1887, and Reminiscences of the Civil War, 1903. He died in Miami, Florida, January 9, 1904. He was buried in Atlanta, Georgia, January 14. Almost seventy - five thousand people looked on or took part in the ceremonies.

Sword Of Hope

The American Cancer Society's familiar symbol, the Sword of Hope, is a red double-edged sword with the physician's caduceus forming the hilt. In describing the significance of the Sword, the Society explains 'The blade is intended to express the crusading spirit of the cancer control movement. The twin serpent caduceus forming the hilt emphasizes the medical and scientific aspects of the attack . . . To millions of people, the Society's sword represents hope and progress in the effort to conquer cancer."

What Parents Expect From School

by Graham Pitsenberger

(The following is one parent's thoughts on the subject, "What Parents Expect From the School" Mrs. Carrie Gilbert delivered the first address at last month's P-TA meeting of Appomattox High School. She spoke on the subject "What the School Expects of Parents.")

Mrs. Ingo as'ced me to state in just 5 minutes what we as parents expect from the schools . . . not what we hope for. You know — we really ho:e that the schools can take our child and make him into the ideal human: overcoming all the weaknesses in training we have given him at home for years . . . And all this with no cost to us.

She also reminded me of the "cups" on spealing — You know; Stand Up, Speak Up and Shut Up.

Before I start I would like to make clear that I don't expect anything I don't expect to pay for ! !

Of course we expect the administration to offer a curriculum consistent with today's needs We expect guidance from the administration and guidance counselors to our children so that they may best take advantage of what the school offers in relation to their own desires and capabilities. We don't expect our children to be shuffled around just to fill classes.

We expect safe, efficient disciplined transportation for our children to and from school. Let me repeat that word "disciplined". It is my understanding that the children are the responsibility of the school from bus stop back to bus stop . . . and therefore under the authority and supervision of the school. This should also include the conduct of others to whom our children are exposed.

We expect a cafeteria which serves our children, proper, hot, balanced, nutritional, appetized meals, and we expect our children to be encouraged to eat these meals.

We expect good library facilities for our children, staried with helpful personnel who encourage our children to use the library and use its books.

We expect teachers who are first of all, dedicated to teaching; teachers who feel teaching is not just a sideline or a job, but a profession which they have chosen. Of course, we expect our teachers to be properly trained in their field and to be of a decent calibre. And being professional people, we expect them to continue their training as long as they practice.

About our school buildings: Although very desirable, I don't feel that a pretty, fancy new building is essential to education. A building doesn't do the teaching. The teachers do the teaching and the children do the learning. As a noted philospher and educator once said, "A good teacher on one end of a log and a willing student on the other end constitutes a university." Of course our buildings must have the necessary room and facilities. I do feel that a community's schools are a definite indication of the interest that the people have in their children and their teachers.

We hope for, but do not expect, our schools to have winning athletic teams. I haven't seen any place where the function of sports was to win games, but it is my understanding that one of the advantages of sports is to teach a proper competitive spirit. I believe that the administration has a great deal of control of the spirit of the school and the pride the pupils have, and I expect them to develop it properly.

We expect a school board which is knowledgeable and up-to-date about today's school need and the actual condition of our educational system and its personnel. We expect them to make changes in both as necessary. I expect the school board to cry out loud and clear to the citizens and the board of supervisers when they need more tax dollars to accomplish the necessary educational goals.

Finally I don't feel we expect too much from our schools when we consider that we entrust to them our most precious gift from God — our children, and the future of the world.

Appomattox Seventh-day Adventist Church

Earnest D. Clark, Pastor
Veteran Members of our Church
I would like for the public to meet one of the veteran members of our church this week. Here is brother, Roscoe E. Hicks, a native of Tennessee, and a veteran of the Seventh-day Adventist Church for 50 years or more. Brother Hicks, who will be 81 years young his next birthday. I'm sure he would like for me to say it that way. Brother Hicks is still a very active member indeed.

He is at present the church's treasurer, just recently re-elected for the third executive year, also the song leader for the Sabbath School and church when necessary. He serves on the church Board — teaches an adult Bible Class and substitutes for the minister and local Elder in their absence as necessary. Many people take him to be a minister, as he is such a good Bible student, having read it through many times and is a firm believer with Job that the Bible is more necessary then his daily food and should be studied each and everyday Job 23:1-2.

Besides fulfilling these important offices Brother Hicks is giving Bible studies and during 'Our World's Missions appeal campaign" which is now in full swing. He is soliciting business places, also going from house to house, visiting and soliciting and in this way each year raising many dollars from friends and neighbors for the Great Cause of Sufferring Humanity.

As long as Mr. Hicks was physically able he did calporteur-work in and around Appomattox. Before coming to Appomattox he worked in the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital for several years in Washington, D.C. Before this time he climbed the mountains of Tennessee as a Canvasser for books, forever on the march for God, and truth and for his fellowman.

Tobacco Market

warehouse floors in any great amount.

Over Million Pounds

With dark-fired and sun-cured offerings combined for the season's first two weeks, the Farmville Market has auctioned 1,128,176 pounds of tobacco for sales that have grossed for 457 farmers slightly in excess of a half million dollars, or $503,634.09.

The Farmville Market auctions considerably more sun-cured leaf than Lynchburg and Blackstone, although the great proportion of this type of the dark tobacco crop is auctioned at Richmond.

Compared to last year's results after two weeks of auctions, the Market here is now running ahead in offerings by 294,824 pounds. The dark-fired seasonal average is up $8.26 over last year's $37.69, and the sun-cured average is better by $4.00 per hundred over 8863's average of $30.99 at this point of the auction season.

The Market average for dark-fired leaf now is running ahead of anything ever recorded previously since the price support system has been in effect. These are records going back to 1930.
